August 6, 2014

Welcome to the 2014 FADAA/FCCMH Annual Conference. The Board of Directors, leadership team and the staff of both Associations hope you find this conference an invaluable experience. We pledge to do all that we can to create an opportunity for you to learn, network, and recoup.

The conference theme, 2014 Guide to Behavioral Health, reflects our commitment to provide you updates on new science, new medicine, new technology, and new opportunities. Our goal is to create a learning environment that challenges your thinking and practice, opens new doors, and provides insight into the landscape of substance use disorder and mental health prevention and treatment services into the future. We trust we have set the stage for this to take place.

In addition to workshops and keynote sessions, the conference offers you opportunities to expand your engagement with behavioral health. We have assembled under one roof a wide variety of goods and services that can benefit your clinical practice, service to clients, and the operation and effectiveness of your company. The conference is also an incredible opportunity to network with your peers from across the state and the region because it's the largest annual gathering held in Florida of mental health and substance use disorder professionals, leaders in the industry, individuals in recovery, and volunteers.

Try not to overlook this chance to take a few days off the grid. Use the conference as an opportunity to step away from your work and use it as a time to rejuvenate, relax, and unwind – you deserve the break. The conference venue offers ample opportunities to relax and refresh.

The success of this event is directly proportionate to the help we receive from our sponsors to make the conference a memorable event. We give special thanks to Magellan Complete Care, Otsuka, Lakeview Health, Bridges of America, Humana, Community Education Centers, Alkermes, Wellcare Health Plans, Behavioral Health of the Palm Beaches, Optum, Netsmart, and Baycare Behavioral Health for their generosity and commitment to sponsoring this event. We also thank all of our exhibitors and advertisers for their continued support. Finally we thank the leadership of the Department of Children and Families, the Department of Corrections, and the Agency for Health Care Administration. The participation of these agencies speaks to their commitment to enhance client care and service delivery.

We want you to leave the conference refreshed, enlightened, and satisfied. Please do not hesitate to let us know if there is anything we can do to enhance your conference experience.

Pre-Conference

Tuesday, August 5 • 9:00am–4:00pm

Pre-Conference workshops provide in-depth knowledge and skill building in select areas in a format that provides a greater opportunity to engage the presenter and ask questions. Learn about ASAM criteria, healthcare integration, and Medicaid/Managed Care.

What Using The ASAM Criteria Really Means... Skill-building and Systems Change

David Mee-Lee, M.D. • 9:00am - 4:00pm • Grand Cypress C • VP, The Change Companies

Using the ASAM Criteria is not just completing a checklist that justifies admission to your program or level of care. This workshop will explain the underlying concepts and the six dimensions of the ASAM Criteria as well as inform clinicians and care managers about what is new in this recent edition. The focus will be on improving clinical and systems application of the ASAM Criteria.

The Integration Train Is Moving - Are You Onboard?

Panel Of Presenters • 9:00am - 4:00pm • Grand Cypress B

Mark Englehardt, University of South Florida
Rick Hankey, Lifestream Behavioral Center
Rita Chamberlain, Manatee County Substance Abuse Coalition

Laureen Pagel, Starting Point Behavioral Healthcare
PJ. Brooks, First Step of Sarasota
Kay Doughty, Operation PAR

This workshop is designed for organizational senior clinical and management staff who are empowered by their organization to assist in integration success. The workshop will provide the participant with current information on the status of healthcare integration, the significant models of behavioral and primary healthcare integration, perceived and actual barriers to integration, possible solutions to overcome barriers, and up-to-date examples of integration projects in Florida.

Medicaid and Managed Care Rollout: An In-depth Review

Panel Of Presenters • 9:00am - 4:00pm • Grand Cypress A

Part 1: Update On The New Medicaid Community Behavioral Health Services Manual and other related manuals. The Agency for Health Care Administration Behavioral Health Care staff will discuss the changes to the CBHS Manuals and answer your questions.

Part 2: Facts About Medicaid's Implementation of The New Managed Care Plans.

The Agency for Health Care Administration and several of the HMO Medicaid Plans will be on hand to provide information regarding transition from prior plans, benefits, scope of practice, and other plan benefits. HMO plans will discuss where they are in meeting their contractual obligations to provide behavioral health care services and how they are working to achieve integration between physical and behavioral health care.

Invited presenters include AHCA leadership, Magellan Complete Care, Sunshine, Prestige, Staywell, and others.

Florida Association of Recovery Residences (FARR): Voluntary Certification to National Standards

Panel Of Presenters • 9:00am - 5:00pm • Regency 1

Candice Conway, Academy of Addiction Professionals

John Lehman, FARR President

Beth Fisher, NARR Emeritus

Brain Crowley, CEO, Integra Labs

Joe Shrank, Cofounder, The Fix

Cathy Claud, Chair: Ethics & Standards

Sharon Burns Carter, Chair: Education & Training

George Jahn, Chair: Advocacy

Stephen Cooke, Chair: Outreach

Michael Liberwirth, Chair: Residents

“Sober Homes” is a hot topic in Florida. Many believe this sector should be licensed and regulated. Others suggest that legislative oversight infringes on protections provided under the FHAA (Fair Housing Amendments Act) and ADA (Americans with Disabilities Act). FARR certifies residences to standards developed by National Alliance for Recovery Residences (NARR). This pre-conference workshop will address the adoption of a uniform code of ethics and operational standards, a brief history covering their development, and key challenges faced by providers operating within this sector. A panel discussion, moderated by Integra Labs, will address legal and ethical urine analysis practices. The keynote will be delivered by Joe Shrank, co-founder of TheFix.Com, Rebound Brooklyn & Loft 127.

Health and Wellness, What's Ahead

 OPTUM™

Future healthcare will increasingly use technology to educate and motivate patients to take a larger part in treatment and wellness. From sophisticated social networks to smart objects that monitor our wellness routines, the virtual world will, by 2020, be almost as meaningful to younger patients as “the real world” is to their parents. At the same time treatment providers will have an enormous amount of new data—from personal genomics to large population outcomes—that can help design courses of therapy. How much will change? Take one example: some talk therapy may well be provided by smart machines and prove to be even more effective for certain patients than human therapists. Yet the real success in 2020 will come from balancing what we know works in the real world with the best new tools from the virtual world.

Integrating Non-Addictive Medication in Drug Courts: Real World Experiences

Palm

Christopher Wilkins, MHA, Founder and President Emeritus, Loyola Recovery Foundation, Pittsford, NY

Use of the Federal Drug Administration (FDA) approved medications to treat addiction is considered an evidence-based approach that has been shown to aid in reducing relapse and is being successfully incorporated into drug courts and other criminal justice treatment settings. In this session, detailed information will be presented on a non-narcotic, non-addictive medication extended-released Naltrexone that is FDA-approved for the treatment of alcohol dependence and opioid dependence. This medication is not a narcotic and is not associated with abuse or diversion. Attendees will hear from leaders on the use of non-addictive medication in a variety of criminal justice treatment settings including Drug and DWI Courts, prior to release from incarceration as well as within Veteran populations. Attendees will learn about the safety and efficacy of this medication, as well as practical information about how to make the medication available to participants and how to integrate it within the court processes, counseling, and other recovery supports.

The Hidden Challenge of Fetal Alcohol Spectrum Disorder (FASD): What It Means For Treatment!

Regency 3 & 4

Kay M. Doughy, MA, CAP, CPP, VP, Family and Community Services, Operation PAR, Inc., Pinellas Park, FL

This presentation will provide the latest information about FASD, its prevalence, and implications for treatment and will provide specific NECESSARY modifications to treatment that maximize the potential for recovery.

Leveraging Benchmarking Through the Use of Data Analytics

Grand Cypress C

Paul Duck, Vice President, Business Development, Netsmart, Dublin, OH

Data-related challenges and opportunities are shaking up the entire healthcare industry. Policy and regulatory changes that affect financial reimbursement and patient-care performance evaluation are forcing organizations to act quickly to improve data analysis. Moving beyond your current level of data sophistication may be vital to many financial, operational, clinical, and patient-care decisions.

Analytics will allow you to act quickly on your data. There are advanced analytic tools that can address all your data needs. With analytics you can drill down to your data in a myriad of complex ways to identify patterns that would otherwise be difficult to discern.

You can also use benchmarking to identify performance issues that need attention. Then you would employ analytics to suggest how to bring about improvement.

This workshop
sponsored by:

Motivational Interviewing: Reflective Listening

Grand Cypress A

Daniel DeFrank, LCSW, Vice President of Clinical Services, Gulf Coast Jewish Family and Community Services, Clearwater, FL

Reflective listening is an art of responding to what a client says. Reflective statements are powerful in eliciting change talk and when skillfully used, elicit change talk more often than questions do. Reflections vary in complexity from simply repeating back, to reflecting implicit meaning or feelings. Through the strategic use of reflective listening in this evidenced based style of communication you will empower your clients from ambivalence, or sustain talk, to change talk. This workshop will provide you with advanced skills and guidelines in using reflective listening: complex, amplified, double-sided reflections, and reflecting your client's body language. Participants will learn how to strategically rephrase and paraphrase while modulating your voice to elicit commitment language. Together we will look at the skillful use of reflections with the readiness ruler and the use of decisional balance. Learning activities will include: video demonstrations, role plays, and interactive discussions.

What Does the Research Tell Us about Treating Offenders with Substance Use or Co-Occurring Mental Disorders?

Poinciana

Roger Peters, PhD, University of South Florida, Department of Mental Health Law and Policy

Evidence-based practices are rapidly evolving as research examines treatment outcomes among offenders who have substance use and/or co-occurring mental disorders. This session will highlight proven intervention strategies for substance-involved offenders and those who have mental disorders. Cognitive-behavioral and social learning approaches will be discussed, as well as implications of the Risk-Need-Responsivity (RNR) model of offender treatment. We'll examine how research can help refine clinical practice, and identify areas in which we don't yet have definitive answers from the research.

Treatment for Commercially Sexually Exploited Individuals

Regency 5-7

Erin Wirsing, MSW, CSEC Treatment Coordinator, Devereux, Viera, FL

Michelle Llorens, Senior Clinical Manager, Devereux, Viera, FL

This presentation will define Commercial Sexual Exploitation of Children (CSEC) and help participants understand the many pathways and precursors to sexual exploitation. The workshop will explore who the exploiters are and their control tactics, as well as how trauma is expressed with youth who have been exploited. Additionally, the presenter will explore motivational interviewing and trauma informed care as best practices to employ for service provision with sexually exploited youth. Devereux currently provides therapeutic, behavioral, and substance abuse treatment for sexually exploited youth at its Viera Campus and will discuss the successes of the program model.

Addressing Cultural Trauma: The Key to Effective Mental Health Treatment for African Americans

Regency 8 & 9

Kevin Washington, PhD, President, Center for Optimal Life, Ocoee, FL

The holistic mental healing of black clients is unthinkable and unattainable if such is attempted outside of the cultural context of the black experience and awareness of cosmologically conceptualization. A healing paradigm that is consistent with the black psyche, and that takes into account the contemporary African American/Black experiences with dimensions of trauma, is advanced in this presentation. This presentation acknowledges cultural (enslavement) trauma and the persistent reoccurrences of race-based trauma that disrupts the psychological wellness of people of African descent. Ubuntu Psychotherapy is advanced as a critical healing paradigm that restores psycho-spiritual wellness within African American/Black people experiencing mental health issues and substance abuse concerns.

Behavioral Health Solutions for Medical Health Plans

Regency 1 & 2

Mary Ruiz, MBA, President/CEO, Manatee Glens, Bradenton, FL

Medical plans are challenged by the reality of poor adherence rates to recommended treatments for chronic disorders such as asthma (20%), high blood pressure (50%), and diabetes (56%) leading to poor outcomes and higher costs. Behavioral health has the technologies, innovations, and competencies to provide the solutions to these problems. Can Florida adopt these national best practices to improve our care?

Music Therapy as a Best-Buy Psychoeducational Intervention for Illness Management and Recovery

Grand Cypress D-I

Michael J. Silverman, PhD, MT-BC, Director, Music Therapy Program, University of Minnesota, Minneapolis, MN

Music therapy is an established evidence-based profession wherein Board-Certified clinicians help consumers reach non-musical clinical objectives with specially designed music interventions based from comprehensive assessments. As part of the interdisciplinary treatment team, many music therapists work in behavioral health settings and utilize a group-based psychoeducational approach to augment illness management and recovery skills. Researchers have found positive results of psychoeducational music therapy interventions including decreases in self and experienced stigma, increases in perceived social support, knowledge of illness management and recovery and general functioning. Music therapy is a good return on investment.

PTSD to Recovery: A Vet's Perspective

Grand Cypress B

Michael Maloney, BSW, CAC, Interventionist, US Army Veteran, Intervene, Palm Beach, FL

Post-traumatic stress disorder is a type of anxiety disorder stemmed from experiencing an extreme emotional trauma and is common among our veterans. Veteran's care, and/or the lack of, is a hot topic in news media, state agencies and personal households. Reoccurring headline issues include patient access and benefits as well as PTSD treatment and coverage. This session will delve into notable statistics regarding veteran's affairs while touching on the state of recent Department of Veterans Affairs current events and challenges. Attendees will venture on a personal trip of PTSD from a veteran who has experienced it firsthand.

Peer Respite Care: An Alternative to Traditional Care

Magnolia

Susan Lang, MA in Public Health, Director of Consumer and Family Affairs, CFBHN, Tampa, FL

Many national models for Peer Respite Care will be presented with discussion of benefits and risks inherent in each model. There will be a discussion and explanation of the cost benefit when comparing the costs of traditional crisis services with Peer Respite Care. The utilization of the Intentional Peer Support Approach to peer services will be demonstrated via video.

Helping People Change Addictive Behavior: Smoking Cessation As A Model

Regency 8 & 9

Andree Aubrey, MSW, Director, FSU College of Medicine Area Health Education Center, Tallahassee, FL

Motivational Interviewing (MI) is an evidence-based approach which is effective in helping people resolve their ambivalence about change and make commitments to behavioral changes that they themselves have identified as being important to them. The MI approach is effective in working with clients about any health related behavioral change. This session incorporates video examples of MI and several interactive exercises which allow participants to practice key MI skills.

Using Online and Mobile Self-Help Tools to Improve Treatment, Access, Outcomes, and Efficiencies

Regency 3 & 4

Charles Tepper, NULL, VP Partnership Development, myStrength, Greenwood Village, CO

Healthcare reform; the ever changing reimbursement landscape; increase demand for services, and the need for a competitive edge. Providers are looking for ways to navigate the changing landscape and the use of consumer focused technology is an underutilized tool. Increasingly reimbursement is being aligned to outcomes and technology offers efficient and effective opportunities to improve patient care.

Providing web and mobile applications that are consumer-centric, evidenced-based, self-help resources and tools can enable healthcare payers and providers to meet consumer demand, extend access to treatment, and improve outcomes.

This session will showcase how consumer application tools have been integrated into different community behavioral healthcare models, lessons learned, outcomes achieved, and clinician and consumer adoption.

Pitfalls and Promise of Integrating Care

Grand Cypress A

David Freedman, MEd, Project Director, South Florida Behavioral Health Network, Miami, FL

Angela Mooss, PhD, Senior Research Associate, Behavioral Science Research, Miami Beach, FL

David Fuentes, PhD, Behavioral Health Program Manager, Jessie Trice Community Health Center, Miami, FL

The integration of Primary Medical and Behavioral Health Care is the future of healthcare, conserves resources, and improves health and wellness. Unfortunately, implementing actual integration is wrought with administrative, logistical, and technological challenges making sustainability of this new model difficult. This session portrays a successful implementation of an integrated care model that provides prevention and treatment services in a primary care setting.

Dixie Morgese, BA, CAP, ICADC, Executive Director, Healthy Start Coalition of Flagler and Volusia Counties, Inc., Daytona Beach, FL

This session is designed to assist clinicians, caregivers, and support personnel in coordinating services and providing interventions to mitigate risk for infants and families involved with alcohol and other drugs.

Being a LGBT Ally in the Behavioral Health Setting

Palm

Heather Stambaugh, MA - Community Mental Health Counseling, LMHC, Peace River Center, Lakeland, FL

Amy Erickson, MSW, LCSW, Peace River Center, Lakeland, FL

Attendees will gain a basic understanding of the common issues experienced by the LGBTQ (Lesbian, Gay, Bisexual, Transgender, and Questioning/Queer) population that may contribute to behavioral health issues among the population. Explore heterosexism and homophobia in yourself, your agency or organization, your community, and society. Learn attitudinal behaviors for working in an open, affirming, and accepting manner toward members of the LGBTQ population.

Advanced Seeking Safety for Veterans and Their Families

Grand Cypress B

Kay M. Johnson, LICSW, MSW, Consultant, Treatment Innovations, Newton Centre, MA

This presentation will provide an opportunity to address, in-depth, how Seeking Safety is applied with veterans to address PTSD and trauma related problems in clinical settings. Seeking Safety is a 25-topic integrated psychotherapy which is used for stabilization. It is an empirically studied treatment that addresses cognitive, behavioral, and interpersonal skills. Skills include: Honesty, Creating Meaning, Setting Boundaries in Relationships, Integrating the Split Self, PTSD: Taking Back Your Power, Compassion, etc. Combining a cultural competence perspective with utilizing Seeking Safety with veterans, specific treatment interventions will be demonstrated and treatment challenges will be discussed. This is an advanced workshop on Seeking Safety. It will be highly clinically-oriented. Implementation issues that have arisen in using the model with veterans will be addressed.

Suicide Risk Assessment

Magnolia

Melissa Witmeier, Project Coordinator, Florida Youth Suicide Prevention Project, Jacksonville, FL

Are you asking the right questions to understand a person that is at risk for suicide? Protocol questions produce a standardized suicide risk assessment that includes documentation of risk and protective factors, current suicidal ideation, desire, intent, planning, past attempts, and other self-report of suicide capability. This training will help you to prepare for working with a person thinking about suicide.

Cognitive-Behavioral Therapy: Working with Trauma

Grand Cypress C

Rosa West, PhD, MBA, LMHC, LMFT, Clinical Assistant Professor, University of Florida, Gainesville, FL

This presentation is intended for the clinician with basic experience in the practice of Cognitive-Behavioral Therapy (CBT). Cognitive-Behavioral Therapy (CBT) is based on the idea that our thoughts cause our feelings and behaviors not external things like people, situations, and events. This is a highly interactive presentation designed to increase clinician experience with CBT and addressing the traumatic experience. We will rapidly review the basic underpinnings of CBT and then progress to the use of core CBT techniques. Attendees will participate in a series of experiential exercises; such as role play and case samples to practice using therapeutic approaches; such as Trauma-Focused CBT to advance the healing of trauma.

The Top 10 Healthcare Trends

Regency 5-7

Denny Morrison, PhD, Chief Operating Officer, Netsmart, Dublin, OH

We are seeing rapid and widespread change in the healthcare ecosystem. Providers continue to be challenged by this changing landscape in such areas as performance-based care, coordination with primary care, provider consolidation, consumer centricity, funding, healthcare reform and more. In this session, Dr. Morrison will discuss the top 10 healthcare trends facing Health and Human Services providers and his view on what you need to do now to prepare for an exciting, uncharted future.

Thinking for a Change

Poinciana

Yvette Salinas, Regional Re-Entry Coordinator, Region 3, Florida Department of Corrections, Boynton Beach, FL

Thinking for a Change (T4C) is an innovative, evidence-based cognitive behavioral curriculum from the National Institute of Corrections (NIC). It is an integrated, cognitive behavior change program for offenders that includes cognitive restructuring, social skills development, and development of problem solving skills. T4C is designed for delivery to small groups in 25 lessons and may be expanded to meet the needs of a specific participant group through aftercare sessions. It has broadly influenced the correctional field and the way correctional facilitators work with offenders and inmates. Correctional agencies often consider Thinking for a Change as one option in a continuum of interventions to address the cognitive, social, and emotional needs of their offender populations.

Protecting Patients and Agencies: Best Practices on Cyber Breach and Privacy

Regency 3 & 4

Alex Ricardo, CIPP/US, Beazley Group, New York, NY

A data breach incident carries its own liability but once the breach has occurred, there is not much you can do to “un-ring the bell”. The event itself is not where most of the liability comes but rather from the organization’s approach to the assessment, investigation, and potential response to the incident. We will provide a review of common causes of data breaches and how to best respond to them in order to keep the organization in the best defensible position possible.

Building Resilience: Effective Treatment Strategies for Young Male Offenders

Regency 1 & 2

Robert L. Neri, Chief Clinical Officer, WestCare Foundation, St. Petersburg, FL

Across the country some of the most complex clients to treat successfully are youthful offenders (18-26 yrs old). They arrive for help with multiple chronic conditions and an emotional immaturity that requires special clinical and program strategies to be successful.

This training will include specific examples of strategies that are working and why. This is a broad based training that will allow the participant to walk away realizing how much we have to learn to modify programs for this age group.

Understanding the Mind/Body Connection and the Treatment of Depression

Grand Cypress C

Mark Rosenberg, MD, PhD, President and CEO, BHM Healthcare Solutions, St. Louis, MO

This presentation will delve into the issues associated with diagnosis and treatment of patients, taking into account new research and evidence related to the mind/body connection, with a particular emphasis on Major Depressive Disorder (MDD). Major Depressive Disorder (MDD) is a broad and impactful disorder affecting upwards of 19 million people, or 9.5% of the population annually. The goal of this presentation will be to show new evidence on how treatment which takes into account holistic patient care is proving effective in treating depression, one of the most costly and common behavioral health conditions. This presentation will provide a fundamental understanding of MDD allowing participants to gain knowledge of the economic burdens, diagnostic strategies, pharmacological treatment, and emerging alternative treatments. Recent research on the mind/body connection, and the clinical evidence of how this can impact treatment will be explored.

Building Blocks - A Specialized Program for Pregnant and Post Partum Women

Grand Cypress A

Raymond Pomm, MD, Vice President of Medical Services, River Region Human Services, Jacksonville, FL

Heather Clavette, Director of MAT, River Region Human Services, Jacksonville, FL

Kristin Barrett, Director of Nursing, River Region Human Services, Jacksonville, FL

Throughout this presentation, you will receive a close look at how Building Blocks was born. Building Blocks was created in order to educate and prepare women for a healthy pregnancy and transition into parenthood. The goal of the group is to provide our mothers and expecting mothers with the knowledge and skills needed to become independent and self-sufficient. This group was designed to incorporate community partners from all across the Jacksonville area to educate women on prenatal care, drug use and pregnancy, exercise, expectations during each trimester, nutrition, birth defects, SIDS, planning for delivery, breastfeeding, baby shower planning, day care options, mental health during pregnancy, single parenting, etc. The overall educational goals for the clients are to ensure that they maintain a healthy lifestyle for themselves and their babies before, during, and after pregnancy, and to ensure that they are knowledgeable about pregnancy services that are available within the community.

Incarcerated Veterans: Challenges and Opportunities

Grand Cypress B

Jessica Porter, MA Public Health, Inmate Program Coordinator, Pasco County Jail, Land O' Lakes, FL

Lt. Barbara Taylor, Inmate Processing Commander and Juvenile Assessment Center Director, the Court Services Bureau of the Pasco Sheriff's Office, Land O' Lakes, FL

The Pasco Sheriff's Office created a Veterans Housing Unit in our detention facility as a way to provide rehabilitative services to incarcerated military veterans. In recognition of their service, we seek to provide these veterans with resources that support sobriety and recovery in preparation for their release. There are opportunities for meaningful interventions even in this less than ideal setting. Our ultimate goal is to reduce recidivism and create a stronger community for our veterans.

Motivational Interviewing in Corrections

Poinciana

Jim Elder, MA Counseling, Director of Clinical Services, HOPE Commission, Milton, DE

The corrections field and community corrections in particular, has long experienced tensions between its two main missions, protecting public safety and rehabilitating offenders. Treatment strategies, that had as their goal the reintegration of offenders into society, have contended that deterrence strategies do not work in treatment. In recent years, the development and application of evidence-based practices (EBP), have shown to increase public safety and reduce recidivism, and can have a profound and positive impact on the corrections field. Programs that emphasized motivation and behavior change over punishment have been successful in reducing crime rates among offenders. This training is largely based on the National Institute of Corrections (NIC).

Seeking Safety: You Can Do This!

Palm

Marcy MacMath, MA, Director of Training, Boley Centers, St. Petersburg, FL
Jennifer Botelho, LMHC, Supervisor, Boley Centers, FACT Team, St. Petersburg, FL
Linda Wait, Homeless Supported Housing Supervisor, Boley Centers, St. Petersburg, FL
Todd Joseph, Safe Haven Supervisor, Boley Centers, St. Petersburg, FL
Chris DeWitt, Dual Recovery Practitioner, Boley Centers, St. Petersburg, FL

Seeking Safety is an Evidenced Based Practice created by Lisa Najavits. It is a group treatment to help people work through past trauma, and substance abuse issues. It is present focused and strengths based. Focusing on safety first, it provides group members with safe and healthy coping skills to combat symptoms related to trauma, decrease substance use and maintain sobriety within a supportive, positive environment. Curriculum is pre-made but allows for flexibility, discussion, and processing within the group. An example of the many curriculum topics include: Taking Good Care of Yourself, Healthy Relationships, When Substances Control You, and Self-Nurturing. This training is designed to provide staff with the knowledge and “how to” skills to implement Seeking Safety groups in their programs.

The Pillars of Postvention for a Suicide Event

Magnolia

Melissa Witmeier, Project Coordinator, Florida Youth Suicide Prevention Project, Jacksonville, FL

Responding appropriately to a death by suicide is vital to an agency, organization, school or family. The goal of this training is to help prepare participants in utilizing evidence-informed strategies, protocols, and standards to handle a suicide. By using state of the art strategies one may develop and enhance crisis response protocols and plans. These strategies will outline the eight core “pillars of postvention”.

Reflective Supervision

Grand Cypress G

Norma Bonet, MSW, Manager, Family Central, North Miami, FL

In my twelve years of supervising mental health professionals I have found that Reflective Supervision puts us all in touch with the critical perspective of what we experience with our client population. It helps us all see the counter-transference we may be experiencing with them. Ultimately, reflective supervision seeks to improve the quality of care for clients through reflection, collaboration, and understanding. This workshop will provide basic knowledge of how to implement reflective practices into supervision.

Adolescent Community Reinforcement Approach

Regency 8 & 9

Paul Staffelbach, BA Criminal Justice, Director of Outpatient Services, The Village South/WestCare, Miami, FL

Danny Blanco, Program Counselor, The Village South/WestCare, Miami, FL

Veronica Medez, Family Therapist, The Village South/WestCare, Miami, FL

Living Involves Family Empowerment (LIFE) features an in-depth look at an in-home/on-site adolescent substance abuse outpatient program that uses the evidence based treatment called the Adolescent Community Reinforcement Approach - A-CRA. This presentation will feature a family that will be presenting their own experiences with this approach and giving testimony as patients from treatment to post-continuing care.

Three of the therapists who are formally trained in this model will speak to the need for evidence based models and their own experience working with families in their homes. They will also provide statistics through the research that has been gathered both by the program and A-CRA developers over the past four years.

Incorporating Technology and Electronic Tools in the Recovery Movement

Regency 5-7

Denny Morrison, PhD, Chief Clinical Officer, Netsmart, Dublin, OH

This workshop
sponsored by:

The American healthcare system is rapidly moving to a consumer directed healthcare model. This means consumers of all forms of healthcare will be able to control their own healthcare in new and exciting ways. We have seen an explosion of online tools and apps developed to give us all more control of our healthcare. For behavioral healthcare, the recovery movement is arguably the most visible representation of the consumer directed care movement. This session will discuss why electronic tools can and should be integrated into the recovery process. An overview of existing technologies will be provided to demonstrate the value of such tools in the healthcare process. Challenges of implementing and using these tools will be described for both consumers and clinicians and suggestions to overcome these challenges will be discussed. The presentation will pay particular attention to the integration of the tools with other electronic systems such as electronic health records.
